OCR enables searching of large quantities of full-text data, but it is never 100% accurate. The level of accuracy depends on the print quality of the original item, its condition at the time of microfilming, the level of detail captured by the microfilm scanner, and the quality of the OCR software. Items with poor quality paper, small print, mixed fonts, multiple column layouts, or damaged pages may have poor OCR accuracy.

66? W. Harvard Place Ontario, California February 11, 1957

Helen Adams Keller American Ridge, Route #1 Westport, Connecticut Dear Helen Keller, Claremont College and Pi Lambda Theta jointly sponsor an annual Reading Conference. Ours is the oldest conference concerned with reading in the United States. This is our twenty fifth consecutive year of conferences. Because this is an anniversary year for us, we disire to make it most outstanding. The conference this year is scheduled to run the week of July 8 to 12, 1957# Our general theme for this year is "Reading is Creative Living". I am sure that no one is a better example of this statement than you. Dr. Peter L. Spencer of the Claremont Graduate School suggested that we contact you and find out if you were planning on being in southern California during the above mentioned week. If you were, would you consider coming to Claremont and sharing your vast knowledge and experience in Reading. If you could accept our invitation to participate at our conference, we will immediately forward further plans and arrangements. An early reply would be appreciated.

Sincerely,

Ir^ne S. Hophan

This charming two story Spanish Colonial Revival home was built in 1926- the height of popularity for this Revival style. With its arched windows, exterior stucco walls and numerous built in cabinets and desk it has all the special features that one seeks in an historic home. Its first owners were George and Alberta Pancoast- he was an IRS agent. By 1934 Peter and Irene Spencer lived here. He was a Professor of Education at the Claremont Graduate University which had been established only eight years before. He founded the Claremont Reading Conference which became nationally known for its workshops and speakers. Harvard Avenue is one block from the campus of the Graduate School and has been the home of many college personnel - farther down the street are the homes of the President of the Graduate University and the President of Pitzer College.

During the Second World War, a military family lived here which was a common Claremont pattern in the 1940s. The longest residents were Jere and Joan French who bought the house in 1963 and lived here for over 30 years. Jere French was also a professor—in this case at the nearby California State Polytechnic University in the city of Pomona. In 2001 Vanessa and Robert Davis were the owners and they put in central heat and air conditioned the first floor. They also remodeled the kitchen retaining the wonderful glass front cabinets. Notice that the historic driveway pattern has been maintained-keeping the double lanes of concrete with a brick center lane and a new slate walkway leads to the entry porch.

The living room has a traditional coved ceiling and the original wood burning fireplace, a large arched central window and built in shelves with a drop leaf secretary which is a more typical bungalow feature. The dining room ceilings are also coved; it is the central room at the front of the house and thus has doorways leading to many other rooms including French doors to the entry porch. The master bedroom has been enlarged with French doors to a patio. Here is a home that has maintained its historic character while adding contemporary comforts, as have all the homes on today's tour.
